

Programme Objective

Students of different educational capabilities join engineering college /polytechnics today. To train them in engineering subjects and to make them become "employable" is the responsibility of the teacher. Therefore the engineering teachers today must be equipped with appropriate skills to manage such students and to handle them learn better. Further, every employer looks for innovative skills from engineering graduates. Such creativity of mind and innovative skills are to be imparted by our teachers. Also availability and retention of teachers is quite difficult.

This program is intended to train the existing engineering teachers (from colleges and polytechnics) and PG students to acquire skills in effective teaching and learning.

This programme will enable one:

- ⊙ To understand the behavior of adolescent learners
- ⊙ To develop positive attitude towards the profession
- ⊙ To use appropriate Instructional methods
- ⊙ To acquire competencies of teaching
- ⊙ To use appropriate evaluation tools to assess students
- ⊙ To effectively prepare students to become 'employable'.
